Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe plans for the organization of events.

Ask your partner:

- What news did you hear about a friend recently? What happened?

Can Do Statements

- I can say what I was doing when something else happened.
- I can talk about possible actions and events in the future.
- I can describe people's personalities.

Let's Explore!

Sally and Peter gossip about Marco and Vanessa.

* To "gossip" means to talk about other people.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Hi, Peter! Long time no see!
Peter: Hi, Sally. Yeah, how are you?
Sally: I'm great ... I might be coming home soon! How are you?
Peter: I'm okay ... really busy with work and school ... I feel like I'm being stretched too thin these days.
Sally: Oh no! I'm sorry to hear that ... Did you hear about what happened with Vanessa and Marco?
Peter: Not really. I heard they had a fight while they were eating out.
Sally: That's right! Marco was behaving like a jerk, being obnoxious and weird. They ran into his ex-girlfriend and he was yelling at her on the street when the cops showed up!
Peter: Did they make up?
Sally: Kind of. Vanessa might forgive him ...
Peter: That's her flaw - she's too forgiving! I may call her later today.
Sally: That's a good idea. Well, good luck at school! I'll talk to you later!
Peter: Thanks! Take care!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Talking About Possible Events in the Future

You use the Future tense (will) to talk about actions in the future. You can also use the modals might and may to talk about possible actions in the future.

The auxiliary will goes before the verb. The short form is 'll.

You use the Future tense when you talk about the future, make offers or make predictions.

The modals might and may go before the verb.

They talk about future possibility or chance that something will happen.

Might means there is a smaller chance that something will happen (30%).

May means there is a slightly greater chance that something will happen (50%).

The Past Continuous Tense

You use the Past Continuous Tense to talk about an action that was happening in the past.

You often use the Past Continuous tense and the Simple Past tense together in a sentence.

You use both of these tenses to talk about an action that interrupted another action.

For example:

When you rang , (Simple Past) I was getting ready to leave (Past Continuous).
